APPRECIATING DIVERSITY

A row of five small, light-colored wooden figures, each with a spherical head and a conical body, standing on a dark wooden surface. A brass key with a decorative head is placed horizontally in the front-most figure. The background is a soft, out-of-focus gradient of blue and white. The text is positioned to the right of the figures, with a green L-shaped graphic element separating it from the image.

At Global Horizon, we value cultural diversity, as we consider it one of our most important advantages. because we understand the importance of cultural diversity in broadening horizons, and therefore, enriching the training experience.

Global Horizon Training Center

LIVING BY QUALITY

Our definition of training quality is not limited to a professional lecturer or distinguished training material, but rather encompasses all aspects of the customer's experience.

We at Global Horizon consider continuous improvement a lifestyle, and therefore we set our compass towards client.

PROMOTING INNOVATION

A person in a dark suit is shown from the chest up, holding a small, white, stylized figure of a person in a suit with a striped tie. The figure is held between the person's palms. In the background, several other similar white figures are visible, slightly out of focus, suggesting a group or a line of people. The overall image has a soft, ethereal quality with a light blue and green color palette.

One of our most important features is going beyond the traditional methods and encouraging trainees to think outside the box.

We understand that innovation requires differentiating between the two ways of thinking; divergent thinking (that uses imagination) and convergent thinking (that uses logic).

We at the Global Horizon Center acknowledge the need for blending the two approaches to create an innovative environment that enhances thinking abilities rather than giving ready recipes and canned solutions.
