Training Course: Effective Safety Supervisor

Training Course code: HE234860 From: 21 - 25 April 2025 Venue: London (UK) - Landmark Office Space - Oxford Street
Training Course Fees: 5775 € Euro

Introduction

Some organizations consider the safety function as a human resource or staff responsibility.

They fail to understand safety as an integrated part of overall operations production or service. Even worse, they believe safety education is not required for line managers because it's not a "line" responsibility: it's a "staff" function.

Consequently, some employers may not adequately educate supervisors about general safety concepts and how to apply them in the workplace.

Supervisors who understand both the manner and the extent to which effective safety and health protection impact the overall effectiveness of the business itself are far more likely to ensure that the necessary safety and health management programs are designed and performed well.

First-line supervisors play a critical role in safety and health protection because of their first-line responsibility for workers and for the work their employees perform.

Effective training of supervisors will address their safety and health responsibilities as well as information on hazards, hazard prevention, and response to emergencies.
