Training Course: Value Selling: Maximizing Deal Size Through Strategic Sales Approaches

Training Course code: FI1002 From: 3 - 7 March 2025 Venue: Rome (Italy) - Training Course Fees: 5750 € Euro

Introduction

In today's competitive business landscape, sales professionals must move beyond price-based selling and focus on delivering real business value to customers. Value Selling is a strategic approach that helps sales teams identify customer challenges, align solutions with business objectives, and position offerings based on their impact rather than cost.

This 5-day intensive training program equips sales professionals with the tools, techniques, and mindset required to sell high-value solutions, handle complex sales cycles, and win larger deals by demonstrating the tangible business benefits of their offerings.

Course Objectives

By the end of this training, participants will be able to:

- Understand the principles of value selling and why it is more effective than price-based selling.
- Develop consultative sales techniques to uncover customer needs and business challenges.
- Position products and services based on business impact rather than cost.
- Build value-driven conversations with decision-makers.
- Differentiate their offerings in complex and competitive sales environments.
- Master objection handling and negotiation to maximize deal size.
- Close larger, high-value deals with long-term customer relationships.

Target Audience

This program is designed for sales professionals aiming to improve their ability to close larger, high-value deals, including:
