Introduction

The transition from accounting roles to management positions requires a shift in mindset, skills, and strategic understanding. This training program is designed to help senior accounting professionals, especially those in accounts payable and finance roles, bridge the gap between accounting functions and management decision-making. The course provides insights into financial leadership, business strategy, and the role of financial data in driving organizational success.

By the end of this program, participants will be equipped with the knowledge and skills to move beyond transactional accounting and contribute to strategic financial decision-making at a managerial level.
