Training Course: Facilitation Certificate in Training and Development

Training Course code: HR235524 From: 29 June - 3 July 2025 Venue: Doha (Qatar) - Training Course Fees: € Euro

Introduction:

In today's fast-paced professional environment, effective training is no longer just about delivering content—it's about facilitating meaningful learning experiences that foster engagement, collaboration, and practical application. The Facilitation Certificate in Training and Development is a comprehensive program that equips professionals with the advanced facilitation skills necessary to lead impactful training sessions, workshops, and group learning environments.

This program goes beyond traditional training methods, focusing on the critical role of the facilitator in shaping the learning journey. Participants will gain a deep understanding of adult learning principles, learning styles, and how to create a learner-centered environment where participants are active contributors to their own learning. By mastering facilitation techniques, participants will be able to guide groups effectively, manage diverse personalities, and create a dynamic atmosphere that encourages interaction, creativity, and retention of knowledge.

Throughout this five-day course, participants will explore a wide range of facilitation tools and strategies, including how to ask powerful questions, manage group dynamics, use visual and auditory aids, and incorporate technology into training sessions. Whether in-person or in virtual settings, the skills gained in this program will enable facilitators to deliver engaging, effective, and memorable training sessions that resonate with learners.

The Facilitation Certificate in Training and Development is designed for professionals who are passionate about improving the learning experience in their organizations. By the end of the program, participants will have a toolkit of facilitation techniques that they can immediately apply in their work, enhancing both the learning process and the overall impact of their training programs.

Target Audience:

- HR professionals involved in learning and development
- Trainers and educators
- Team leaders and managers responsible for staff development
- Consultants and facilitators who lead training workshops
- Individuals aspiring to develop facilitation skills for group learning

Objectives:

By the end of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Understand the principles of adult learning and apply them in training environments.

2. Design and deliver engaging training sessions with a focus on facilitation.
3. Use a variety of facilitation tools and techniques to enhance group learning.
4. Manage group dynamics and handle difficult situations during training.
5. Assess and evaluate the effectiveness of facilitated training sessions.
