Introduction:

The STCW First Aid program, created by Global Horizon Training Center, is tailored to provide marines with comprehensive first aid knowledge essential for addressing medical emergencies in maritime settings. This course adheres to the Standards of Training, Certification, and Watchkeeping for Seafarers STCW convention, ensuring participants are well-versed in theoretical aspects of maritime first aid.

Objectives:

By the end of this training, participants will:

- Understand the principles of first aid relevant to maritime environments.
- Recognize common medical emergencies and appropriate response measures.
- Gain knowledge on using first aid equipment and responding to various medical situations.
- Be able to coordinate effectively with medical services during emergency situations.
- Learn the theoretical foundations for life-saving care and emergency medical treatment.

Course Methodology:

- Interactive Lectures: Comprehensive and engaging presentations with multimedia support.
- Case Studies: Review and discussion of real-life maritime medical scenarios.
- Theoretical Discussions: Detailed discussions of emergency response protocols.
- Group Discussions: Collaborative learning through question-and-answer sessions.
- Written Assessments: Evaluating understanding through quizzes and tests.

Organizational Impact:

Implementing this training will:

- Enhance the readiness of marines to identify and respond to onboard medical issues.
- Ensure compliance with STCW regulations and maritime safety standards.

- Foster a well-informed crew, increasing overall shipboard safety and reliability.
- Strengthen the crew's theoretical knowledge, empowering better decision-making during emergencies.
