Introduction

In today's complex energy landscape, cultivating strong and strategic relationships with governments and regulatory bodies is essential for the long-term success of oil and gas organizations. Effective government relations not only ensure regulatory compliance but also foster trust, facilitate project approvals, secure licenses, and enhance a company's social license to operate.

The "Effective Government Relations for the Oil & Gas Sector" training program, developed by Global Horizon Training Center, is designed to equip professionals with the knowledge, tools, and strategies necessary to build and sustain impactful government and public sector engagement. It combines best practices from global energy hubs with real-world scenarios tailored to the specific sensitivities of the oil and gas sector.

Course Objectives

By the end of this training course, participants will be able to:

- Understand the roles and functions of government relations in the oil & gas sector.
- Navigate regulatory frameworks and government decision-making processes.
- Develop strategies for effective engagement with public sector stakeholders.
- Identify and mitigate political, regulatory, and reputational risks.
- Build communication and negotiation skills for advocacy and lobbying.
- Align government relations strategies with corporate objectives and national energy goals.

Course Methodology

The training adopts a practical and interactive approach, including:

- Expert-led presentations and group discussions
- Regional and international case studies
