Training Course: Advanced Approaches and Principles in Providing Legal Consultations for Public Entities

Training Course code: SC236024 From: 11 - 15 August 2025 Venue: Barcelona (Spain) - Grupotel Gran Via 678 Training Course Fees: 6000 € Euro

Introduction:

Legal consultation within public entities demands a unique blend of advanced legal expertise, practical understanding of public administration, and sensitivity to the public interest. Public sector legal consultants must navigate complex regulatory frameworks, uphold principles of transparency and accountability, and support decision-making processes that impact society at large.

The "Advanced Approaches and Principles in Providing Legal Consultations for Public Entities" training program, crafted by Global Horizon Training Center, offers an in-depth exploration of sophisticated legal advisory techniques tailored for the public sector environment. This program emphasizes strategic legal thinking, risk management, and ethical considerations unique to government bodies and public institutions.

Objectives:

By the end of this training, participants will be able to:

- Apply advanced legal principles and methodologies in public sector consultations.
- Understand the specific legal frameworks governing public entities.
- Deliver effective legal advice that balances legal risks with public policy considerations.
- Navigate conflicts of interest, confidentiality, and ethical challenges in public legal consulting.
- Develop comprehensive legal opinions and advisory reports.
- Enhance stakeholder communication and collaboration skills.
- Support institutional compliance, governance, and risk mitigation efforts.

Course Methodology:

The program employs an interactive and participatory methodology that includes:

- Expert-led lectures and legal briefings
