Training Course: Handling Information Overload

Training Course code: MA1146 From: 11 - 15 October 2026 Venue: Amman (Jordan) - Training Course Fees: 4200 € Euro

Introduction

In today's digital and fast-paced work environment, professionals are constantly exposed to vast amounts of information from emails, reports, meetings, and digital platforms. While access to information is essential, excessive and unstructured data can lead to decreased productivity, poor decision-making, and increased stress.

This program, developed by Global Horizon Training Center, equips participants with practical strategies and tools to effectively manage, filter, and prioritize information. It focuses on improving focus, enhancing decision-making, and optimizing workflows by reducing unnecessary distractions and information clutter.

Participants will learn how to streamline communication, manage digital inputs, and develop habits that support efficiency, clarity, and better performance.

Course Objectives

By the end of this program, participants will be able to:
