Training Course: Compensation Packages and Salary Structure

Training Course code: HR3041 From: 19 - 23 October 2026 Venue: Madrid (Spain) - Training Course Fees: 5775 € Euro

Introduction

Effective reward management is one of the most powerful levers organizations possess to influence employee performance, engagement, and retention. There is a strong, evidence-based correlation between organizational success and well-designed compensation systems, making it essential for HR professionals to move beyond administrative pay practices toward strategic, value-driven reward frameworks.

This program, Compensation Packages & Salary Structure, provides a comprehensive and practical foundation in designing, implementing, and managing modern compensation systems. It adopts a holistic Total Rewards approach, integrating financial and non-financial elements to ensure alignment between employee contribution and organizational objectives.

Participants will explore various salary structures, performance-related pay systems, benefits strategies, and international compensation practices. The program equips professionals with the tools required to design competitive, equitable, and performance-driven reward systems that support business growth and workforce motivation.

Program Objectives

By the end of this program, participants will be able to:

- Understand the core concepts and strategic importance of reward systems
- Identify and apply the key components of Total Rewards frameworks
- Analyze the purpose of reward systems from both organizational and employee perspectives
- Compare and design different types of salary structures and pay models
- Evaluate the effectiveness of performance-related pay PRP
- Design benefits and allowance structures aligned with workforce needs
- Understand international compensation challenges, including expatriate rewards
- Develop practical approaches for implementing and managing compensation systems
