Training Course: Methodology for Evaluating the Real Worth of Organizations

Training Course code: FI9156 From: 27 September - 1 October 2026 Venue: Sharm El-Sheikh (Egypt) - Sheraton Sharm Hotel Training Course Fees: 4350 € Euro

Introduction

This program provides a comprehensive framework for business and financial analysis aimed at determining the real economic worth of organizations. It goes beyond traditional financial valuation to include strategic assets, operational strength, risk exposure, and future earning potential.

Participants will learn how to interpret financial and non-financial data, compare organizations on a "like-for-like" basis, and adjust for differences in accounting standards, regulations, and economic environments across countries.

The program also highlights the importance of judgment in financial analysis, including prudence, materiality, and the interpretation of accounting policies, ensuring participants can assess organizational performance with a holistic and realistic approach.

Objectives

By the end of this program, participants will be able to:

- Evaluate the true economic and strategic value of organizations
- Analyze financial statements using advanced comparative techniques
- Identify and interpret key financial and non-financial performance indicators
- Assess risk factors including inflation, currency fluctuations, and future uncertainty
- Understand the impact of different accounting standards and policies
- Apply valuation techniques based on going concern and market conditions
- Distinguish between prudent and aggressive accounting practices
- Improve decision-making using reliable and relevant financial information
