Training Course: Customer Care and Communication Skills for Frontline Staff

Training Course code: MA234917 From: 2 - 6 August 2026 Venue: Manama (Bahrain) - Training Course Fees: 4725 € Euro

Introduction

Frontline staff serve as the primary ambassadors of the organization, shaping customer perceptions through every interaction. As the first point of contact, their behavior, communication style, and professionalism directly influence customer satisfaction, brand reputation, and overall business success.

In today's highly competitive and customer-centric environment, organizations must ensure that frontline employees possess exceptional customer service and communication skills. This includes understanding customer needs and expectations, managing diverse personalities, and maintaining professionalism in high-pressure situations.

This program is designed to equip participants with the practical skills, techniques, and mindset required to deliver outstanding customer experiences. Through interactive exercises and real-life scenarios, participants will learn how to communicate effectively, manage challenging situations, and contribute to building a positive organizational image and long-term customer loyalty.

Training Objectives

By the end of this program, participants will be able to:

- Understand the core concepts and importance of customer care excellence
- Identify the key drivers of outstanding customer service and customer satisfaction
- Recognize different customer personalities and behavioral patterns
- Apply effective verbal and non-verbal communication skills
- Adapt and develop their own professional communication style
- Utilize advanced questioning and active listening techniques
- Handle customer complaints and difficult situations using emotional intelligence
- Manage stress effectively in high-contact customer environments
- Build and sustain customer loyalty while enhancing the organization's image
