Introduction

Today's organization deals with ever-increasing levels of complexity when trading globally. Sourcing suppliers, managing quality, cost and delivery through the supply chain requires managers to continually sharpen and update their skills in order to effectively provide the measurable best value for their organization. In this program you will study:

- Key principles and tools for global supplier sourcing
- Vendor auditing and compliance
- Shipping options, Insurance, and Incoterms
- Developing cost-efficient supply chain logistics

Course Objectives

- Develop cost-effective international vendor sourcing strategies
- Develop an awareness of shipping options and cost structures
- Construct effective global supply chain management strategies
- Develop appropriate risk mitigation and marine insurance strategies
- Ensure vendor compliance with international standards & CSR
- Take away specific action plans to further develop their role and organizational benefit

Training methodology

A blend of delivery styles to ensure that all delegate learning patterns are catered for; oral, visual & kinesthetic. Program content will follow a format of the introduction of a topic, discussion of the topic to aid theoretical understanding and place the topic within the wider process context. Real-world client examples will be utilized throughout, which will be combined with practical exercises for each topic, leading to delegates having applied theory, discussion, and practice to the whole international trade and shipping process throughout the program.

Course Summary

This program covers the essential skills required by both managers and technical specialists to develop effective international trade and cost-effective shipping strategies. The program begins by exploring the challenges organizations face when trading globally and further develops to equip delegates with the requisite skills to effectively identify and manage risk within the supply chain, understand cost drivers within the shipping and to develop strategies and processes covering compliance and financials which drive the best value in line with their organizational market space.
